Reid A. Godbolt is a distinguished attorney at Jones & Keller, P.C., based in Denver, Colorado. Over his 45-year tenure with the firm, he has developed deep expertise in securities regulation, capital formation, mergers and acquisitions, and the representation of issuers and underwriters in public and private securities offerings. His work spans multiple industries, including energy, insurance, technology, mining, and private equity funds, hedge funds and mutual funds. Reid also advises executives and boards of directors on sales of control and internal investigations. Throughout his career, Reid has been involved in significant transactions, including large-scale mergers and acquisitions.

Reid's career is marked by a series of notable recognitions. He has been consistently recognized by his peers for excellence in securities and corporate finance law. He was named Best Lawyers® "Lawyer of the Year" in Securities/Capital Markets – Denver in 2012, 2017, 2018, 2019, and 2021, and in Securities Regulation – Denver in 2018, 2021, and 2024. He is also listed in Best Lawyers in America® for securities law, private funds law, and mutual funds law. Reid has been honored for many years as a Colorado Super Lawyer® in securities and corporate finance, including recognition among Colorado's Top 100 Attorneys for many years. He served as Chairman of the Securities Law Subsection of the Colorado Bar Association (1991–1992).

Beyond his legal practice, Reid has contributed to the legal community through publications and presentations. He has co-authored works on acquisition agreements and mergers and acquisitions in Colorado and has spoken at numerous conferences for securities and corporate attorneys. His leadership roles, such as serving as the chairman of the Securities Law Subsection of the Colorado Bar Association, further reflect his commitment to the field. His educational background includes a Juris Doctor from The Catholic University of America (1980) and a B.A., with honors, from New York University (1977).
